Among the falsehoods that are now being assistationally circulated by persons and papers opposed to the President is one that in his Lincoln Day speech the President argued that the people are not fitted for self-spoverament. President Taft said nothing on that occasion which could possibly be tortured into any such construction. "The speech in which the President made reference to popular goverament was delivered at the banquet of the State Bar Association in New York the night of January 20. What he then said on this subject, and it was correctly quoted in the newspapers the following day, was this: "Popular government we all believe in. There are those of us who do not believe that all people are fitted for self-government. The fact is we know they are not. Some of us do not dare say so, but I do; and the question whether a people is fitted for popular self-sovernment we as to make that government beat for that people is determined by the hillity of the majority of that people to place upon itself the restraint by which the minority shall receive justice from the majority. It is the question of self-imposed restraint that determines whether a people is fit to govern it self."—White Houss statement.

Whether unconsclously or not, the President in this statement has struck a blow at the plans of Colonel Roosevelt and his supporters. The men behind his boom in Washington have been planning to make this supposed utterance of the President can be fitted for self-government, while Roosevelt was to be champion of the people's cause. The entire attack upon Mr. Taft hinged chiefly on the sentence, "There are those of us who do not believe that all peoples are fitted for self-government, while Roosevelt was to be champion of the people's cause. The entire attack upon Mr. Taft hinged chiefly on the sentence, "There are those of us who do not believe that all peoples are fitted for self-government." The President's encules have been substituting the word "people" for "peoples," and have made it appear that he was speaki assiduously circulated by per and papers opposed to the Presi
